Business is a riveting and realistic crime novel by Kripos police prosecutor Terje Bjøranger.

A man comes into a flower shop in Aker Brygge, takes out a pistol and shoots the woman working at the register. The man deliberately leaves fingerprints and waves to the security camera. Nonetheless, the police are unable to identify the killer.

For police investigator Charlie Robertsen, this becomes a journey into a dark world in which human trafficking is “big business”.

Terje Bjøranger has once again delivered a crime novel that is eerily realistic.
